Officials Pleased With Fine Cooperation in First Practice Test of County Warning System

A simulated tornado, the first practice alert since a warning system was set up in Hempstead, struck across the county between 10 and 11 a. m. today.

First warning came at 10 a. m. from the U. S. Weather Bureau which reported the storm north-east of Texarkana, traveling north-east. The Weather Bureau gave three other reports before the alert clear was sounded.

Following the first warning Storm Warning officials, City, State and County Police and alert spotters went into action. All authorized schools in the county and at Prescott were notified with in 18 minutes after the first alarm. Large industries were also alerted. Three County schools, Blevins, Clow and Lincoln High were not called because they failed to authorize a call by the Warning Officials.

The fire whistle sounded at 10:15 which signaled a general alert. A state police spotter traveled with the tornado, giving timely and accurate information. They were aided by Corn Belt Hatteries' mobile radio units and the County Judge's radio car.

All information was assembled at Hope Police Department. Spotters making calls included Mrs. Sam McGill at Fulton, Mrs. Roy Fry of Highway 67, Mrs. E. H. Collins of Spring Hill, Lee Norton in the SPG, Mrs. Hollis Samuel of DeAnn, Ralph Boyce of Blevins. Other spotters were not alerted as they were not in the tornado path.

Simulated damage was listed by Director Victor Cobb as follows:
Fulton was "lost" because the town couldn't be warned in time. However, they did get a 10 minute radio warning by radio.

Guernsey School with a 20 minute radio and a 10 minute telephone warning was damaged.
Top floor of First National Bank was blown away. There was no indication that anyone in the bank building took any kind of precaution, officials said.

Oglesby School was partially destroyed but a practice drill did save the children.

And Blevins School was damaged. The storm disappeared at 11:15.

Director Cobb had high praise for the way everyone carried out the practice alert. He especially praised all officers and school officials and teachers for wholehearted cooperation.

"This was only a practice alert but it possibly could save many lives in the event of the real thing," Mr. Cobb said.

Unemployment Fraud Brings 2 Convictions

Two Hempstead County men, Oscar L. Criner and Fred Fellows, were convicted of fraud and misrepresentation in connection with drawing Unemployment Insurance Claims in Municipal Court, Monday, April 7.

Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Louis Crain said today that the convictions were rightly listed as false pretense in the Star's published court docket but the offenses were of such a serious nature that additional publicity should be given in order to prevent such cases from reoccurring.

Oscar L. Criner convicted of drawing an Unemployment Insurance Claim through the Hope office while working at the same time. For a six week period he earned $40.00 a week that he did not report and by not reporting his wages was paid Unemployment Insurance. If his wages had been reported he would have drawn nothing.

In accordance with the Employment Security Law Judge Lemley fined Criner $50 and costs and sentenced him to 10 days in jail. Criner must also repay $298 fraudulently drawn.

Fred Fellows was convicted of fraud in not reporting wages earned from Morgan Lindsey, Inc. during the repair of their building. Fellows earned varying amounts which exceeded his unemployment benefits and as a result was paid $72 which he was not entitled to receive over a three week period. He was fined $25 and cost and sentenced to 10 days in jail and will also be required to repay the $72.00.

Crain indicated that he had been informed by Teddy Jones, manager of the Hope Employment Office, that due to the widespread unemployment and to increased claim load that fraud and misrepresentation was increasing in Arkansas. These are the first convictions in Hempstead County in some time. Crain indicated that additional cases are pending in adjacent counties.

Wreckage of Plane Sought in England

The wreckage of the British-built Canberra parachuted to safety. They were slightly injured.

State Lottery Laws Defined for Detroit

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The Arkansas attorney general's office defined the state's lottery laws today at the request of a Detroit attorney.

An opinion by assistant Attorney General John P. Haskins said it is legal in Arkansas for companies to give away draw prizes and to award prizes for naming contests as long as the entrants are required to buy nothing.

Everett Wells said he represented a company that is to judge two contests sponsored by a gasoline distributing firm. One contest involves the naming of a lion mascot. The other involves the award of prizes to persons whose cards are selected.

The opinion said the element of consideration would be absent from the drawing contest, since entrants would not have to buy anything. The other contest was approved since the General Assembly has said bank night type plans are legal forms of advertising.

In another opinion, Haskins said the Judsonia town council could obligate state turnback funds but it could not commit its own funds beyond the present fiscal year.

The ruling cited a Supreme Court case which said the counties can obligate state turnback funds and the same interpretation would apply to municipalities.

The ruling said under the state Constitution, the town's own general funds cannot be committed beyond a fiscal year. The opinion was requested by Chester Bramlett, a member of the Judsonia town council.

General Strike in Cuba Seems to Have Failed

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY
United Press Staff Correspondent

HAVANA, Cuba (UP)—The rebels' general strike appeared today to have been stopped in its tracks.

Buses and street cars were operating and shops were open under the watchful eyes of Havana police and the army. The army's lethal reaction to Wednesday's initial outbreaks resulted in the killing of "more than 30" insurgents.

Scattered bomb blasts continued during the night, and rebel radios in broad daylight victory claims warned that any attempt to operate public transportation would be met by more bombs and gunfire. But as Cuban workers streamed to their jobs this morning, with only a few cases of absenteeism reported, the threatened violence failed to materialize.

A communique said that "more than 30" insurgents were killed in scattered "first stage" violence in and near the city Wednesday, in which both the government and the rebels claimed victory.

A couple of rebel bombs rocked the blacked-out city during the night, but there were no reported casualties or damage.

Another communique said that saboteurs burned a truck and a bus in the outskirts of Havana Wednesday night. It said police opened fire on the attackers and inflicted a "few casualties."

Aside from these incidents, this metropolis of 1,200,000 persons appeared normal at the start of the working day.

Police stations still were heavily guarded with sandbags and cars entering and leaving the city were being searched. Some sections of the city remained without power.

But, for the moment, business seemed to be functioning without difficulty, although some early-rising workers stayed away from their jobs. These men apparently feared the threats from rebel leader Fidel Castro's forces that they would be shot down if they went to work, despite government claims Wednesday that the "revolutionary general strike" had been crushed and the insurgents routed.

TITO HOSTS PORUSHILOV

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UP)—President Tito's government announced Wednesday that Soviet President Nikolai Voroshilov will make a state visit here next month.

Ike to Avoid Drastic Action, Leaders Predict

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower, with an eye on the returning Congress, will continue his offensive against further drastic anti-recession measures, administration leaders predicted today.

These sources said the President was apprehensive the lawmakers will descend on the capital next week in a mood to slash taxes quickly.

The Chief Executive was understood to be considering suggestions that he go directly to the people with a plain-spoken warning that likely tax reduction and unduly large federal spending might bring on inflation more painful than the current recession.

This is the administration's present position on the recession: "Taxes: No reason to make a decision on tax reduction now or possibly for weeks. If such a decision is reached, late May seems the earliest probable time."

No Big Public Works
Public works: "This is no time for a big program. Such things move too slowly to ease unemployment, and stimulate business in less than several months."

Deficit: Experts don't hope for much lower than a two-billion dollar federal deficit this fiscal year, much more in 1959 and for years to come. If Congress continues to appropriate large amounts to turn the economy upward.

Wages and prices: Restraint on the part of business and labor is indicated. Business particularly can do a lot more to help itself with better salesmanship, more attractive price policies, and offering more attractive goods. Labor should consider now what demands in the light of what they might do to prices.

Economy in government: Congress can help reduce the deficit by going along with administration suggestions for savings in government operations.

Budget: Director Maurice H. Stans, in some of the bluntest language yet used by an administration official, laid current policy on the line Wednesday night in a speech at Houston, Tex. "As serious there must be an eventual day of reckoning for deficit financing," he declared.

"Unbalanced national budgets are like pants without suspenders. You can't keep them on forever. Stans said "Large public works programs are not the right answer for the country now because 'what we get from these slow-moving projects are bigger budgets later on, when that may be the last thing we want."

Selective Tax Cut
With a big "if," he said that should conditions "reach the point where a large scale shot in the arm seems needed, a selective tax cut ought to come first."

The United Press reported April 7 that administration fiscal experts forecast a possibility of a deficit for fiscal 1959, which ends June 30, of between two and three billion dollars. Stans' criticism in his Houston speech the deficit would be at least a billion dollars over the 400 million estimated in January. He added this did not take into consideration the expected fall-off in tax collections.

Opnely criticizing Congress for not paying sufficient attention to administration recommendations for economizing, he declared:

"By turning on vast new programs for spending, it has moved far away from any hope of balanced budgets for 1959 and possibly several more years."

Says U. S. Must Continue Tests

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—American Legion National Command John S. Gleason said America has no choice but to continue its nuclear tests despite the fact Russia's propaganda will multiply in effectiveness "with each nuclear device we explode."

Gleason, addressing a Rotary Club meeting, also predicted Russia will resume its nuclear tests after getting the most out of her "latest and most devastating propaganda victory."

"America will carry out our planned nuclear tests in the Pacific this spring and summer," Gleason said. "And Russia will carry on her propaganda, multiplying its effectiveness with each nuclear device we explode."

"Knowing this, we still have no choice but to conduct these tests. And when we conclude, in outraged indignation Russia will announce to the world that in her own self-defense and against her demonstrated desire for peace she must resume her own tests," Gleason said.

Declares Chain

Letter Spread

Just a Scheme

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—A Treasury department officer thinks a savings-bond chain letter sweeping northeast Arkansas is "get-rich-quick scheme" due to end soon.

Jack Ludrick, assistant director of the Treasury Department's bond division, said banks and other bond-selling agencies have been asked to reject applications for bonds when they believe the persons buying them are taking part in the chain-letter.

He said most of those who take part in the chain letters lose rather than make money.

"This is inevitable because the supply of interested persons is soon exhausted," he said. "The greater the amount to be invested, the sooner the saturation point is reached."

He said the Treasury Department wants to sell bonds, but not for any "get-rich-quick scheme."

The bond-selling letter turned up in Northeast Arkansas last week and has been reported at Memphis and Baton Rouge as well. The scheme calls for a person receiving the letter to buy two savings bonds for $10 each and to send the letter to two other persons.

DOROTHY DIX

Years of Sacrifice
Win Financial Goal

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband was 21, and I was 17 when we were married six years ago. I worked almost to the day our son was born then went back when he was two months old. We lived with my mother-in-law, who took care of the baby. This was all at my husband's insistence. His only thought was for security, and I must admit he worked hard at it. He held two jobs and saved every nickel he could from our two salaries. Of course, I could see his point. We had no bank account when we married, he wanted a home of our own and he certainly handled our money well. But, he would never give me a cent unless it was for something absolutely needed. We had no pleasures, no entertainment or recreation. I stopped work a year ago, when I was expecting our second child, and have stayed home since. My husband says we are ready to look for a house, but he hasn't let me spend money or recreation. I don't think he will ever change. Do you?

LEILA

Dear Leila: You have a most remarkable husband. Not many young men of 21 take on the responsibilities of matrimony with such strength of character. It has not been easy on him either, but he's put the family welfare before everything else, and I gather success is in sight. Your husband will probably never relax; he's not the type. He'll go on working for the necessities, comforts and luxuries of life, but I doubt if he'll ever be able to see pennies spent carelessly. To that fact you must adjust. As compensation, you'll have fine children, a nice home, bonds for the person whose name headed the list when he got it.

The U.S. postal inspector's office at Little Rock said no complaints had been received about the letter. The office had got a notice of it being in operation in Missouri, but hadn't received a report that it was in Arkansas until this week.

Banks at Paragould were rushed last Friday by persons buying bonds, apparently to take part in the chain letters. At Jonesboro Tuesday, a bank turned away several persons wanting to buy bonds, advising them they might be submitting themselves to prosecution if they take part in distributing the letters.

no bills and your youngsters' education assured. Is it worth a sacrifice? I am sure it is.

Dear Dorothy Dix: We moved to a small town from a large city, and have run into a batch of nosy neighbors who want to know what's going on if they hear the bang of a hammer. We're getting on in years and would like some peace and quiet—that's why we moved here.

BORED

Dear Bored: The time may come when you'll bless your lucky stars for interested neighbors. So don't try to scare them off completely. Tell one or two people that your husband's health requires more rest, specify times of the day when you're not available to callers, and the word will soon spread.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I was going out with a boy for three months, steady one month. We broke up because he wanted to date other girls. He can't stick with one girl. Do you think he will ever change? He's 17.

C. C.

Dear C. C.: Seventeen is an age for change. Trying to stick a boy that age with something permanent would be fatal. Don't try it.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Would it be all right for a boy who is taking a girl out for the first time to go parking with her? W. W.

Dear W. W.: No, no, no, a hundred times no. If you'd like specific reasons, send a stamped, self-ad-

Pulaski Giving Out Surplus Foods

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Distribution of federal surplus foods began in Pulaski County Tuesday after a lapse of about a year.

About 400 persons turned up to receive the food, according to county welfare officials. About a hundred eligible for the first day's distribution did not report, however.

A total of 2,945 persons have applied for the food for their families but 416 were rejected as not qualified. In all, including those on welfare rolls, 18,667 persons have qualified.

The county dropped out of the program about a year ago, but re-entered last month. The federal government provides flour, cornmeal, rice, and other surplus foods to the states, which in turn distributes the food to counties for the needy.

Shooting Hits Havana, Power Knocked Out

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY
United Press Staff Correspondent
HAVANA (UP)—Widespread shooting broke out in downtown Havana today and a bomb blast opposite the prime minister's office knocked out all electric power.

It appeared rebel leader Fidel Castro's long-heralded all-out offensive against the government of President Fulgencio Batista was underway.

At 11 a.m., rebel raiders invaded a radio station in suburban Vandado and forced announcers to run a record proclaiming that "the general strike is about to start."

One bomb exploded near the United Press office in the arcade of the Hotel Sevilla Baltimore. Banks in the area immediately closed their doors and workers fled for cover. Shops in the area also were closing.

Police with Tommy guns and army intelligence agents took over the Prado, Havana's main street, and began a block-by-block hunt for rebel gunmen.

The blast near the prime minister's office was preceded by an

Pacific Tests Could Bring End to Blasts

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today that he would very seriously consider suspending U.S. nuclear tests if the forthcoming series in the Pacific provides the United States with necessary scientific data.

After the 1958 tests are completed, the President said, U.S. scientists will tell him whether they provided most, if not all, of the information they sought.

If the scientists report success in obtaining the needed information, the President said he would then consider very seriously a suspension of further nuclear testing. He said it would be perfectly possible that the United States, in that event, would make a unilateral statement of its intentions to halt testing.

The President thus left open the possibility of more tests in the future. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said Tuesday the United States hopes it can stop testing at the conclusion of the spring-summer series. But the secretary said the "likelihood" is that there will be need for further tests.

The possibility of further tests is understood to hinge on the need to develop a nuclear defense against a Soviet missile attack.

The President at his news conference reacted coolly to proposals made by Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) that the United States ask Russia to join in a pledge to test only "clean" nuclear weapons.

Great advances have been made in cutting down radioactive fallout in nuclear tests, the President said. Therefore, the term "clean" is used although there still is a percentage of some dirty residue of radioactivity.

Therefore, the President said, one cannot say we will test only clean nuclear weapons. The question, he added, is how to make such weapons cleaner.

Apparently unsuccessful rebel attempt to raid the national armory in old Havana.

Meanwhile, reports from the rebel capital at Bukittinggi said a revolutionary government police dragnet was closing in on a teenage student believed to have thrown a hand grenade at revolutionary headquarters Monday night.

Rebel Defense Minister Burnabuddin Harahap denied the attack was an assassination attempt on his life. He said the student, identified only as being between 16 and 18 years old, was seeking revenge for the arrest of his father in an anti-Communist raid in Bukittinggi two weeks ago.

New Crisis in Tunisia Slows Truce Effort

BARBEZIEUX, France (UP)—Anglo-American efforts to end the Franco-Tunisian dispute after a dead end today. A new crisis over alleged Tunisia shipments of arms to Algerian rebels appeared to be in the making.

U. S. and British diplomats came here today to consult with Premier Felix Gaillard at his country home in the Cognac region of west-central France, but the pessimistic belief in Paris was that they would report failure.

The "good offices" team of U. S. Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert D. Murphy and Harold Beeley of the British Foreign Office were accompanied here today by U. S. Ambassador Amory Houghton and British Ambassador Sir Gladwyn Jebb. They are seeking a way out of the stalemate before Tunisia hands the two-month-old crisis back to the United Nations.

Their efforts were hampered by two new developments. —France vigorously protested to Tunisia that 22 cases of two-way radio sets seized at Nico Monday night were being shipped by Tunisia to the Algerian rebels. Tunisia replied that the French claims were "pure fantasy."

—French authorities in Algiers said an armed Tunisian patrol crossed into Algeria Monday and exchanged gunfire with French troops who moved out to investigate. No one was killed. The incident occurred 40 miles north of Saker. Sidl Youssef where a French bombing attack Feb. 8 precipitated the present crisis.

Informal sources said Murphy and Beeley would tell Gaillard

Annual Kiwanis Club Minstrel Starts Here Tonight

The 15th annual Kiwanis Minstrel will open tonight in the high school auditorium with a complete new show, according to Dr. Emmett Thompson. The second performance will be given Friday night. All money derived will be used, as in the past, for the Hope Youth program.

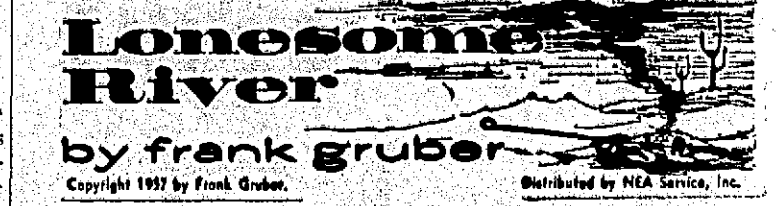

said an armed Tunisian patrol crossed into Algeria Monday and exchanged gunfire with French troops who moved out to investigate. No one was killed. The incident occurred 40 miles north of Saker. Sidl Youssef where a French bombing attack Feb. 8 precipitated the present crisis.

Informal sources said Murphy and Beeley would tell Gaillard and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau that Tunisia has rejected a French plan for neutral supervision of the Algerian-Tunisian border.

THE STORY: Some of Pete Rawlins gunfighters are bullying a farmer named Blatnik in a saloon at Ba'kerville. Witnessing the trouble is Tom Weber, who has been warned by the Rawlins clered Tate Hopkins. "I was sound asleep night two - three nights ago when he broke in on me and knocked me around. Yesterday, he lit into me again for no reason at all."

Weber's fist smashed into Hopkins' face. "That's for no reason!"

Sheriff Moon whipped out his Frontier Model.

Ten minutes later the cell door was locked on Tom Weber and Leo Blatnik.

"I can't believe it," Blatnik whistled. "I am the innocent party, yet I find myself in jail. The sheriff is supposed to be on the side of the right and I know I was right."

"If you'd been wearing a gun, you'd have been killed," said Weber.

A key rattled in the recently locked door. Sheriff Moon opened the door. "All right, he said testily, 'come out.'

Weber walked out of the cell into the Sheriff's office. Mike Denver was seated in an armchair, his fingers locked across his expansive waist.

Blatnik came out of the cell, saw Denver and stopped.

"Beat it," said Denver. "You're free. You can go. But next time you get drunk, watch yourself."

"I am not drunk. I want to tell you."

"Can't you see I'm busy?" snapped Denver testily. "I'm talking to Mr. Weber."

"Oh, are you?" asked Weber. "Why do you think I'm here?"

Sheriff Moon looked frowningly at Denver. "He followed Blatnik outside."

"Not much you don't own these days," said Weber.

"You're very observing," Denver shrugged. "Weber, you're not wanted in Lobo Valley."

"What about my ranch? Aren't you going to make me an offer for it?"

"All right, if that's all that's keeping you here, I'll buy your ranch. It's worth two thousand to get rid of you."

"That's not a bad offer, Mike. Beats those of Alderton and Rawlins."

"I've got some blunk deeds at the office," Sheriff Moon said. "Uh-oh, not yet. I'll think about it."

"What's there to think?" Denver snapped. "I'm offering you four times what your dinky place is worth."

"That's why I want to think it over. Your offer is too good and you were never a generous man."

"You're crowding me, Weber!" Denver's eyes became slits. "You're crowding me, Weber!"

"Your brother - in - law's killers are crowding me, Weber!" snapped Weber. "You tell them the next man comes to my place at night gets buried there."

Where Are Davis and Blanchard?

By UNITED PRESS

Felix (Doc) Blanchard and Glenn Davis were the "Mr. Inside" and "Mr. Outside" of Army's tremendous football teams of 1944-46, each making the United Press All-America team for three straight years. Army record in that memorable span was marred only by a scoreless tie against Notre Dame in 1946 and the Irish had that one coming. In 44, Army defeated Notre Dame 59-0 and followed the next year with 47-0.

Whatever happened to Blanchard and Davis Blanchard, the big fullback is a jet pilot in the Air Force, stationed in England, with the rank of major. Davis, out of service, now is assistant promotion director of a Los Angeles newspaper.

Twenty-year-old Al Oerter, a senior at Kansas University achieved his self-described "life's goal" last Saturday when he heaved the discus 202 feet, six inches at the Arkansas Relays in Fayetteville, becoming the first man to pass the magic mark.

That might come in for dispute from the West Coast where less than two weeks ago Rink Babka of Southern Cal tossed the platter off the field and into a mud puddle.
Some said it actually was over 200 feet, but it officially was measured at slightly in excess of 198 feet, still better than the old world record of 194 feet, six inches by Fortune Gordien of Minnesota in 1953.

Oerter, who beat Gordien to win the 1956 Olympics in Melbourne, thrives on pressure.

"My practice throws are never good," Oerter says. "I can always do at least 10 feet better in a meet. It's the competition that does it."

Although Oerter is the first to give credit for a "perfect sidewind" that acted as an airfoil and held the discus level for his record throw in Arkansas, it might well be that his real spur was some 2,000 miles distant in California.

Oerter had long dreamed of becoming the first man to reach 200 feet with the platter and was confidently aiming for it near the end of this season. But then Babka came close and Oerter knew he had to hurry. The pressure was on and he met it.

Coordination and Timing Oerter is a technician of his trade. "Coordination and timing are the big things in throwing the discus," he said. "It takes a lot of practice to learn to balance the body while spinning."

The strength of the discus throw comes mostly from the deltid muscle at the top of the shoulder.
Oerter, scientifically selected the "snatch" method of weight lifting to develop this muscle and works out regularly.

The native of New Hyde Park, N. Y., will receive his degree in business administration next winter, and then head for a career in public relations and a continuation of discus throwing with the New York Athletic Club. It's a safe bet that he'll show up again at the 1960 Olympics.

But in the immediate future
there is a duel shaping with Bab-ka at the National Collegiate championships in Berkeley, Calif.

Bennett Laws Approved at Pine Bluff

By UNITED PRESS

Pine Bluff voters approved the controversial Bennett Ordinance 3,403 to 2,053 votes Tuesday along with a $100,000 bond issue to purchase new fire-fighting equipment. In the special election, voters defeated a proposed ordinance which would have authorized the city planning commission to regulate property up to 2½ miles beyond the city limits.

The Bennett Ordinance, conceived by Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett, authorized city governments to order "certain non-taxed organizations" to open their membership and financial records. The ordinance is aimed at curbing the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

History of Issue

Although adopted by the City Council in November, 1937, Wiley A. Branton, a Pine Bluff Negro Attorney, filed petitions asking that the ordinance be placed on the election ballot. Last week Branton filed a writ of mandamus in Jefferson Circuit court to prevent the vote on the Bennett Ordinance.

He claimed the ordinance was not published 30 days before the election according to law. The Circuit Court petition was dismissed.

Approve City Hall

In a tight vote at Jonesboro, residents overwhelmingly approved a bond issue to build a new city hall and a fire sub-station.

Chancellor Gives Attorney Advice

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The Little Rock insurance executive who suggested a commission to work out school desegregation problems said today a "blow" detrimental to the state will occur unless segregationists accept progress to Negroes.

Herbert L. Thomas Sr. told a meeting of business and civic leaders he wanted to speak specifically to the segregationists. He said if the segregationists are determined not to accept the authority of the courts and the view of the majority of the other states, then his efforts are of no value and future discussion is useless.

"If that be the attitude, we can expect, with a feeling of uneasiness for the next blow to strike— not knowing when or where it will fall but knowing for a certainty that it will strike to the lasting detriment of the state," Thomas said.

Thomas proposed Monday that the state board of education name a commission to set down with local leaders to work out integration problems, to "wipe the slate clean."

He said today his proposal to the board was to tell the Negroes there is no easy solution to the problem, but despite the difficulties the people want Negro progress in education and want good relationship between the races.
